The TechWrite STL group continues to hold its bi-monthly lunch meetings. At each meeting, a topic of interest to freelance medical and technical writers is presented by a member and discussed by the group, usually over lunch at a local restaurant.

Leslie Neistadt, AMWA Mid-America chapter member and Board of Editors in the Life Sciences (BELS) Registrar, described several of the available medical/technical writing certifications, including requirements and costs at our January 2014 luncheon. Leslie distributed a handout with a comprehensive table, which summarized requirements, fees, etc., and she noted that some certifications require coursework, while others require passage of an exam. Attendees discussed the pros and cons of certification. Leslie described the specifics of the BELS exam process, including the application process and preparing for the exam.

TechWrite STL and St. Louis-area AMWA Mid-America chapter members met for dinner on March 25, 2014. Maureen Hoock, MSPT, LMT, a St. Louis-area Physical Therapist and Massage Therapist, discussed ergonomics for computer users, and how to prevent and treat repetitive stress injuries resulting from excessive computer use. Some attendees sent photos of themselves in their computer work stations ahead of time, and Maureen made specific recommendations for their setup during her presentation. She also provided a handout with stretches to combat muscle tension, and demonstrated a few massage therapy techniques on attendees.

Upcoming events in 2014 include a tour of the newly renovated St. Louis Central Public Library on May 16th, “Writing for the Web” in July, “Avatars in work-related communications” in September, and “Preparing for Tax Season” in November.

Lisa Balbes and Joanne McAndrews have been co-organizing the group since its founding in 2006.

A listing of upcoming luncheons can be found on our chapter website (http://www.amwa-midamerica.org/index.html) and a list of past topics is available under the History tab.
The Mid-America chapter officers have been meeting regularly by phone to clarify and update our procedures. One result was the Bylaw revision, which you voted to approve. We’ve also streamlined our bookkeeping and banking.

The chapter has openings for officers, two of which I’ve described below. Please consider joining our team! Contributing your talent and energy can make our chapter an even better resource for members.
